PART 1

Goku kid in an anime style

This step-by-step guide is the first part of a tutorial on how to paint the child Goku from Dragon Ball. This time we will employ a different painting style, trying to imitate the Japanese anime look.

By Jon Gómez (Pintureando.com)

1 First, a black primer is applied. Surface Primer Black 70.602 can be applied either with a brush and an airbrush. We can also use Hobby Paint Spray Black 28.012.

2 Using an airbrush, we apply a zenithal highlight using Game Air Cold Grey 72.750.

3 All of Goku's skin is painted using Fantasy-Pro Natural Flesh 74.006.

4 The skin is shaded by applying a mixture of Fantasy-Pro Natural Flesh 74.006 and Fantasy-Pro Burned Flesh 74.002 in the folds and area naturally in shadow.

5 The first highlight is applied using Model Color Sunny Skin Tone 70.845.

6 A second and final highlight is applied to the skin using a mixture of Game Color Pale Flesh 72.003 and Fantasy-Pro Highlight Skin 74.008.

PART 1 - Goku Kid in an anime style

- 7 The eyes are painted with Model Color White 70.951 and then the pupils and eyebrows with Model Color Black 70.950.

- 8 Goku's clothes are painted with Game Color Heavy Red 72.141.

- 9 For the base color of the clothes, we apply Game Color Bloody Red 72.010, leaving the previous darker red in all the folds.

- 10 We apply the first highlights with Model Color Orange Red 70.910, this time focusing on all the points that naturally catch the light.

- 11 To give the final touch to the clothes, Game Color Orange Fire 72.008 is used in small areas that receive the maximum light.

- 12 For the socks, we use a first base coat of Model Color Neutral Grey 70.992. Then we apply Model Color White 70.951, leaving the gray in the lower areas where the shadows would naturally be.

- 13 We then prepare a dark blue color, mixing Model Color Dark Sea Blue 70.898 and Model Color Blue 70.925, to paint the shoes and the wrist cloth.

- 14 The base color is applied, using a mixture of Model Color Blue 70.925 and Game Color Magic Blue 72.021. As with other parts of the figure, we will keep the dark blue from the previous step in the lower areas and folds of the clothes as a shadow shade.

- 15 To finish the blue areas, we apply a highlight in the upper areas with Game Color Electric Blue 72.023.
